The graduation rate is calculated by dividing 150% timeframe graduates by the final cohort size. The cohort is established by counting all fully matriculated students who enrolled in their first nursing course during the academic year and remained past the first two weeks. From this total, subtract any students who withdrew due to personal hardships—such as family, financial, or medical issues—or who transferred to another program.

The graduation rate is calculated by dividing graduates who completed the program in six semesters by the final cohort size. The cohort is established by counting all fully matriculated BSN-A students who enrolled in their first nursing course during the academic year and remained past the first two weeks. From this total, subtract any students who withdrew due to personal hardships—such as family, financial, or medical issues—or who transferred to the BSN-B program track.

The graduation rate is calculated by dividing graduates who completed the program in 150% of the time by the final cohort size. The cohort is established by counting all fully matriculated BSN-B students who enrolled in their first nursing course during the academic year—including those who transferred from BSN-A and excluding anyone who dropped within the first two weeks. From this total, subtract any students who later withdrew due to family, financial, medical, or personal issues.

The graduation rate is calculated by dividing six-semester graduates (excluding summers) by the final cohort size. The cohort is established by counting all fully matriculated BSN-C students who enrolled in their first nursing course during the academic year and remained past the first two weeks. From this total, subtract any students who withdrew due to family, financial, medical, or personal issues.
